Dear Mr. Tamm,

Delay in answering your letter is due to an increased burden of new work which keeps me even busier. I have two extra things to finish before I can get back to WHITEWASH III. My willingness remains unchanged, but my time is now overly committed I'd say for not less than two months.

When you write again, please use plain paper. My eyes are not too good and that fancy weave is hard on them.

I will recall that snow. I went from New York to Hartford in the worst of it, managed with fine chauffeurs to get around for everything save one TV show in Hartford, made it to Boston the next day, thence to Burling, and back on schedule! But it was a real snow and not easy for travel.

If you recall chapters 11 of the first book and 7 of the second you may have a pretty good idea of what Garrison is doing. He now joins me in saying the evidence indicates Oswald could have killed now one. I'm not as lonely

Prior to going to the Archives, you can save some time by writing in advance and getting the papers that must be approved. It is a formality and it can be done while you are there, but you'll never have enough time, so save these few minutes by doing it in advance. Meanwhile, if I possibly can, I'll go there once while you are there.

Sincerely,
